2.3.2 Teachers use ICT enabled tools for effective teaching-learning process

Response:

As the Information and Communications Technology (ICT) can impact student learning when teachers are digitally aware and understand how to integrate it into curriculum. Along with traditional teaching and learning process, our institute is substantially using ICT based e-learning systems - content and learning management tool like Vmedulife for effective teaching learning process. Therefore, teachers of our institute can easily do academic planning and can conduct test, assignments and grade them. The academic planning was done based on outcome based education system; the all subjects are linked with PO's and CO's. The students can solve the test and assignment through browser and vmedulife app, so as its make them very convenient to appear for internal exams. As our institution has subscription for the e-resources like e-journals, e-Shodhsindhu membership, e-books and remote access to e-resources, as study resources are available online; students can access to them at their own time. As our institute is premium member of DELNET, students are able to asses online e-books, e-journals of science and life sciences, near about 5000 e-journals full text can be assessed and 1000 of thesis can be viewed by the students.

All the faculty members have been trained by conducting FDP programme based on modern pedagogy tools, by DTE, Mumbai. Later on training the faculty members have practised for use of ICT based teaching – learning process. To keep the teachers update with the modern tools and various usage of ICT ineffective teaching and learning, faculty members are permitted for training programmes organized by AICTE, MSBTE and DTE through online or offline mode. The most of the staff has successfully completed the ICT based training through SWAYAM and NPTEL platform. In the process of perpetual modernization of the teaching learning process, the institute has installed LCD projector, LAN and audio system in all the class-rooms, computer lab, and pharmacology laboratory. All the staff members have been trained to utilize
